SOVIET LEADERS IN CHARGE OF CONVERTING
GDR PEOPLE'S POLICE INTO ARMY

Bonn, 20 June -- Three Russian generals and an admiral have arrived in East Berlin with the task of initiating the conversion of the People's Police to the East German National Army, reports Europäische Wehrkorrespondenz, an independent German military information journal published in Bonn.

The four are said to be Colonel General Vinogradov from the Russian Ministry of War, Colonel General Shel'tov, Lieutenant General Nagornyy, and Vice-Admiral Vonshev.

By sending this delegation, the Kremlin has verified the suspicion that the People's Police was never anything but camouflage for military units, and that thereby the Kremlin has openly broken the Potsdam Agreement, the report asserts.

At present, former German Field Marshal von Paulus, who was captured in the battle of Stalingrad, is serving as an instructor of tactics at the military academy in Moscow, according to reports by liberated Germans who have recently returned home from the USSR.

These Germans report further that former Lieutenant General Beck, a son of the former Field Marshal von Kleist, a son of industrial magnate Krupp von Bohlen und Hallbach, and a close relative of Colonel General Dietl, the supreme commander of the North Front during the war are prisoners in Sverdlovsk and are said by the Russians to have been sentenced to 25 years' penal labor.
